Get Your Economic Stimulus Payment Safely and Securely

Soon, as a result of a recently enacted economic stimulus package, the government will be sending out checks to individuals to help revive the economy. Where there is money, there are scam artists trying to get a piece of it, or potentially worse yet, use the opportunity to steal your identity.

If you file a tax return: Do nothing different. Simply file your tax return as you would normally. If you have already filed a return, do nothing further.

If you do not file a tax return: If you are eligible for an economic stimulus payment, the IRS will be sending you a package providing the information and 1040A form you need to get your stimulus payment.

Keep in mind:

- You may be eligible even if Social Security is your only income.
- You have plenty of time to file (probably until October 15, 2008), so take your time.
- If you don't usually file a tax return, you'll get a letter from IRS.
- ONLY the IRS is authorized to send letters.

The Big Tip-Offs to Scams

The IRS will NEVER do the following things. If anyone attempts these against you, refuse to give personal information:

- Call you to ask for your Social Security number or bank account information.
- Email you to ask for Social Security or bank account information.
- Send a letter that tells you to respond by phone or email.
- Come to your home.

The IRS NEVER calls or emails taxpayers asking for personal information! If they need to reach you, they will reach you by mail. The only way the IRS collects your bank account details is if you choose to put them in your tax return for direct deposit of refunds. You should NEVER pay a fee to get your payment.
